About Maya

Maya works with owners of independent businesses as they build relationships with suppliers, customers and collaborators. Her focus is on understanding how a business operates before discussing the agreements it needs.

She takes a straightforward approach to meetings: identify the decision to be made, explain the available options in everyday language, and agree what should happen next. Clients can choose an office meeting or a video call.

Areas of practice

- Commercial contracts
- Supplier and service agreements
- Business collaboration agreements
- Day-to-day small-business matters

A first conversation

Share a short outline of your business, the question you want to discuss and any relevant dates. The team will explain the next steps before arranging a meeting.

Please do not send confidential documents with an initial enquiry.
